

Other information

Rebecca is based in London. She works as an animator, designer, model-maker, director, on various different film and television projects.

As an animation director, she is represented by Slinky Pictures.

Rebecca loves drawing and telling stories. She is in the process of building two illustration portfolios, and hopes to start working in editorial very soon. At the moment, she is working on an idea for her first children's book, which she hopes to get published in the near future.

Rebecca has always had a passion for sewing and fashion, and she is also interested in environmental issues and sustainability. She started her label 'Rebecca & Molly' in 2006 in order to create and sell brooches made from recycled fabrics and beads. You can buy one of these unique brooches from @ Work (one of the UK's leading contemporary jewellery galleries), in Brick Lane and Pimlico, London.

Rebecca enjoys painting in her spare time, and exhibits her work with Lime Tree Gallery, Long Melford, Suffolk.
